

2024-2025 Special Circumstance Form

Federal Student Aid regulations provide for re-evaluation if your financial circumstances change. The 2022 income information that you reported on your financial aid application may not be an accurate indicator of your family's ability to pay educational costs.

Please Read Carefully Before Continuing:

A special circumstance can be considered if you/your spouse or your parent (if dependent) anticipates that their future income will be substantially less than what was earned and reported in 2022 on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). This can occur when the student or a family member loses employment or other benefits such as child support, when a spouse or parent dies, or when the student or student's parents divorce. Additional expenses such as private tuition or medical expenses may also be considered if it substantially reduces the yearly income. If you believe a special circumstance exists, please complete the rest of this form.
