Lo, Now Ascends the Morning Sun

Japanese poem, anon.
Richard Hillert

Legato espressivo  \( \frac{\text{♩}}{\text{♩}} = 50 - 54 \)

SATB

Lo, now ascends the morning sun
And floods the world with light Let all who now in darkness dwell
The glorious
Hillert: Lo, Now Ascends

Come unto him and live

him and live

The Lord, who brings salvation

Rejoice, rejoice, all ye who worship him down In glory now appears

Rejoice, all ye who

Rejoice, all ye who sun- rise greet For he whose word is truth and law Has come in- to the world Let all who seek for right - eous - ness Kneel hum - bly at his
The Lord who wields almighty power Has come into the All ye beneath life's crushing load Come unto world Hillert: Lo, Now Ascends

him and rest

Our Lord, the prince of peace and love
Is come down from above

O come, all ye who

O come, all ye who

mourn and weep
And he will wipe your

mourn and weep
And he will wipe your Descant: A few voices

SA

TB

The Lord and source of endless life Is born into the

The Lord and source of endless life Is born into the

The Lord and source of endless life Is born into the Let every one now dead in sin Come unto world

Come unto him and live The Lord, who brings salvation Rejoice, rejoice, all ye who worship him
down In glory now appears Rejoice, all ye who

Rejoice, give thanks and worship him
worship him
Rejoice, give thanks and

Molto allargando

sing, Re-joice, give thanks and sing.
sing, Re-joice, give thanks and sing.
sing, Re-joice, give thanks and sing.